During Covid-19 Pandemic

Abstract

Stigma prevails in almost every society. However, it differs depending on culture, religion, and geographical location. In India, there is also a stigma to some kind of diseases which is also associated with occupation and position. The changing of the notion of stigma has resulted into a new form. The health workers faced this stigma during the pandemic as they experience difficulties in performing their job. In this presentation, I will look at the concept of stigma and to what extent has Covid -19 affected health workers, particularly the medical doctors.

The scholar is pursuing M.Phil Degree in the Department of Sociology, Central University of Haryana. He completed his Master's Degree from the same department.
